FOREWORD

A key theme of NSMC meetings in 2015 was the continuing focus on economic growth and job creation.

In its work the Council continues to recognise the strong value of co-operation for mutual benefit. During the year there was real progress in a number of key areas. In particular, the Council welcomed the progress with the construction of the new Radiotherapy Unit at Altnagelvin. Health has always been an important area of co-operation. When it opens in 2016 the new £66.1m unit will deliver real improvements in health services for people in the North West, on both sides of the border. Also, it will represent a tangible benefit of the cooperation between both governments.

Infrastructure improvements are also an important outcome of good co-operation. At the end of the year the Council welcomed the refurbishment of the Belfast to Dublin Enterprise Service and the improvements to the Boyne Viaduct. Funded by the EU INTERREG Programme, the work represents a significant investment in the transport corridor between Dublin and Belfast.

The Council also welcomed the commencement of work on the 2.5km stretch of the Ulster Canal between Lough Erne and the International Scout Centre at Castle Sanderson on the Cavan-Fermanagh border. The growth of water based tourism has delivered real value, particularly in rural communities. Once completed in 2017, the improvement to this stretch of the canal will be a welcome boost to the economy in the Cavan -Fermanagh border area.

The investment in our railways, the new Radiotherapy Centre at Altnagelvin and the work on the Ulster Canal are just some examples of the work being taken forward by North/South bodies and by the Departments through the agreed areas of co-operation. The work of the Bodies and Departments remains focused on the Council's agenda to prioritise efforts on economic recovery, job creation, and the best use of public funds and the most effective delivery of services for our citizens. The Fresh Start Agreement, agreed at the end of the year, also provides for an opportunity to review North/South infrastructure projects and a report on this will be considered by the Council in 2016.

European funding remained an important agenda item for Ministers during 2015. At the end of the year the Council welcomed the approval of the new INTERREG V and PEACE IV Programmes. Combined both programmes represent an investment of €550m over the next seven years.

During the year Pat Colgan retired as Chief Executive of the SEUPB. In his eleven years as Chief Executive Pat made an invaluable contribution to North/South Co-operation. We wish Pat well in his retirement and Gina McIntyre, his successor as Chief Executive, every success in her new appointment.

Finally we would like to thank officials in the departments of the Irish Government and Northern Ireland Executive, the North/South bodies, the agencies that support our work and, in particular our colleagues in the Secretariat, for their support and co-operation during 2015.
