1) INTRODUCTION

In the run up to the June 2016 referendum on the United Kingdom's membership of the European Union, the Research and Information Service (RaISe) published a reading list which sought to provide Members with a list of information resources that addressed the potential impacts on Northern Ireland of a decision to leave the European Union.

The result of the referendum, held on Thursday 23 June 2016, was that a majority (51.9%) voted for the UK to leave the European Union. In Scotland and Northern Ireland, however, a majority of voters voted to remain.

On 29 March 2017, the Prime Minister, Theresa May, wrote to the President of the European Council, Donald Tusk, to trigger Article 50 of the Treaty on European Union and initiate the process of UK withdrawal from the EU. RaISe is, therefore, now producing a list of information sources which have been published following the referendum result and the triggering of Article 50.

For political, economic, geographic and social reasons, the impacts on Northern Ireland of UK withdrawal from the EU might be expected to differ in important ways from the impact of withdrawal on other parts of the UK. Most obviously, Northern Ireland is unique in that it is the only part of the UK which has a land border with an EU Member State. When compiling the list, therefore, an attempt has been made to select commentary, analysis and media coverage which has particular relevance to the specific context of Northern Ireland and future of the border. The list, however, also includes strategically important documents, such as the published positions of the UK and Irish governments and the EU institutions. Similarly, material from the devolved institutions in Scotland and Wales has also been included, given the potential relevance and read-across to the work of the Executive and the Assembly.

As the volume of published material on Brexit is vast and varied, this reading list does not purport to be a single comprehensive source covering all issues and opinions. However, the material has been drawn from a wide range of well-established and authoritative sources and RaISe intends to update the reading list as appropriate.
